Bat & Ball Centre Fire Escapes and Assembly Point

History

By the initiative of the Sevenoaks Community Association, formed in 1968, funds were raised and the Centre on the Otford Road opened in October 1983 to serve Sevenoaks and the neighbouring villages. Much credit is owed to the efforts of the first two Association chairmen, Reg Quinnell and Gwenneth Mehew. The Centre was on a site owned by the District Council and leased to the Association at a 'peppercorn' rent. Due to increasing costs Sevenoaks Town Council agreed to take over the operation of the Centre and the lease. The Community Association was dissolved in 2001.*

*Extract from Sevenoaks, An historical dictionary; David Killingray and Elizabeth Purves, 2012

Sevenoaks Community Centre entrance circa 1999

Early records of Sevenoaks date back to the 13th century when a market was first held here. The settlement grew from the 15th century after the construction of Knole House between 1456 and 1486 by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The house, which still stands today, has been extended many times through history and is now one of England's largest homes and an important landmark.

Land to the north of Sevenoaks was largely agricultural with a number of estates and manor houses including Bradbourne, Greatness and Riverhead. In the 18th century the area included a number of mills. These included a silk mill set up by Peter Nouaille – a French Huguenot and owner of Greatness House. This mill employed over a 100 people including French refugees.

Two turnpikes were opened through the area in the 18th century, the east-west Reigate to Wrotham (1765) and the north-south Farningham to Sevenoaks (1766). These met at Bat and Ball junction and a toll gate and inn were established at the location.

The railway arrived in 1862 and Bat and Ball railway station was the first station to be built. The area around the station became a hive of activity with a large goods yard and coal operation. Sevenoaks Station followed in 1868.

Brickmaking had been a feature of the area for several centuries, with Tudor bricks from the area used to build Otford Palace, dug and fired next to Otford Road. The 1910 plan of the area indicates brickworks to either side of Otford Road on the site of the current Vestry Road Industrial Estate.

In the inter-war years the demand for bricks and sand to construct new homes led to further works being established in the area including the Greatness Brickworks to the north-east of the area and sand and gravel extraction to the west of Bat and Ball.

Through the 19th century Sevenoaks continued to grow. The St John's Hill area was developed for housing through the period 1840 to 1880 and the Sevenoaks and Holmesdale Cottage Hospital opened on St John's Hill in 1873.

In the post war years gravel extraction at Bradbourne led to the creation of Sevenoaks Wildlife Reserve. The Reserve, established in 1956, was the first of its kind with the excavations flooded to create a series of lakes. Extraction of sand and gravel was completed in Bradbourne in 1980; however, extraction is now taking place at Greatness on land known as Tarmac land adjacent to the former Greatness Brickworks.

Employment use continues to play an important role in the area. Former rail sidings adjacent to the station are now occupied by the Sevenoaks Enterprise Centre and the Vestry Road Industrial Estate to the north is located on a combination of former brickworks, landfill and railway sidings.

Rebuild 2019/2020

The Sevenoaks Community Centre, although used extensively as a community hub, was more than 30 years old, and the fabric of the building required costly maintenance and was uneconomic to operate. Public feedback also indicated that it was no longer a venue where they would want to hold a special family occasion e.g. a wedding. Also, a larger venue had been requested by businesses and the public for events with a sit-down capacity of 250. People requiring such a venue were having to go out of town.

Sevenoaks Town Council (STC) had already made a commitment to the regeneration of the Bat and Ball area and believed that a new community centre was a key component to this.

Initially, the Town Council considered selling its office site and combining capital income to build a two-storey community centre, which would have its offices on the first floor. Unfortunately, there were planning problems relating to this idea on both sites. At the same time, the Red Cross relinquished its building (adjacent to STC's offices), and this provided an opportunity for its development.

Bearing all of this in mind, the Town Council reconsidered its original plan and decided to retain its office site, refurbish the old Red Cross building and keep the current community centre site for its original purposes, which had the benefit of the car parking not being so restrictive.

This proposal provided several advantages:

- Less pressure on car parking at the Bat & Ball Centre
- Less pressure on car parking at STC office site, also enabling nearby residents to use some car parking spaces during non-office hours
- Retains community assets
- Enables Sevenoaks Day Nursery to continue with its original plans (on community centre site)
- Enabled a new Business Hub to be created in the former Red Cross building

Plan for new Centre

The driving vision for the new Bat & Ball Centre was to replace the tired and no longer fit-for-purpose 30-year-old community centre with a facility that would be characterised by being a high quality contemporary building, within accessible and vibrant public realm, enabling a lively and eclectic mix of daytime and evening activities. It was intended to complement and be interactive with the refurbished adjoining Bat & Ball Station building, being far more economical to operate with improved aesthetics and extended community space.

It was important to STC that once the new building was constructed the external areas should be landscaped to enable the exterior to also be a valuable community space.

It was also vital that the Centre be part of STC's Priority One strategy to recognise the Government and Kent County Council's declarations for aiming for Zero Carbon. This meant:

- rebuild instead of new build is more sustainable;
- materials used for the building had to be eco-friendly and as sustainable as possible;

- additional sustainable features include solar panels, motion sensor lighting, increased insulation, improved boilers and air conditioning;
- users should be encouraged to use public transport – train station adjacent to Centre;
- installation of electric car charging points;
- more trees, including fruit and nut trees, should be planted;
- provision of cycle racks.

What was the budget and how was it funded?

- Project Budget:
 - £2,775,208
 - + £303,597 contingency
 - £3,078,805 total
- Funded by:

Extensive consultation took place regarding provision of new a community centre including articles in the press, Town Crier magazine, public meetings, Community Investment Plan, social media, etc.

Work began in September 2019 and got underway swiftly and efficiently.

In spring of 2020, the project became more challenging due to the COVID-19 restrictions and, in particular, with the sourcing of materials.

The building was eventually handed over to the Council, having being completed (apart from a bit of snagging) on time and on budget, in time for the grand opening in December 2020, but unfortunately, the pandemic meant that all plans for a formal ceremony were put on hold.

Sevenoaks Town Council was honoured that the first use of the Centre was as a COVID-19 Symptom-Free Testing Centre.

Mural at the main entrance

Sevenoaks Town Council commissioned a mural by local renowned artist, Melvyn Evans, to depict social history relating to aspects of Northern Sevenoaks.

The panel has been installed at the entrance and acts as a security measure, being made of contravision, which stops people being able to see into the building; however, it does not stop people looking out.

The visual panel depicts the social history of Northern Sevenoaks including pictorial reference to the following:

- Local brickworks
- Gas holders
- Important trees
- Bat & Ball Station
- Watercress fields
- Quarry

Sculpture: 'After the Storm' by Glenn Morris

On the morning of the 16th of October 1987, the residents of Sevenoaks awoke to an entirely altered landscape; winds of up to 134 miles per hour had torn trees from the earth and caused utter devastation. Ancient oaks and beeches that had stood for literally hundreds of years were now lying broken on the ground.

Sevenoaks, as a town, became widely known as the epicentre of the 'Great Storm' so, for me, this seemed a fitting subject and source of inspiration for this work. 'After the Storm' is made from a small section (less than a quarter) of the main stem of an oak tree that fell that night in 1987.

The timber lay for over thirty years and, as can be clearly seen from the cracks and holes, was subject to nature's steady and inexorable attempts to slowly break down the wood and return it to the earth.

Oak is, however, extremely resilient and was, until recently, the timber of choice for a wide variety of crafts including shipbuilding, furniture, transport and buildings so, even after such a long time, I was able to salvage the timber (albeit bearing the scars of time) which now, away from the damp and decaying organisms, will last for hundreds of years into the future.

The ring count of the main stem would indicate that the tree was 280 years old on the day it fell victim to the storm, and therefore was a sapling when William III was on the throne and the only form of transport was by horse.

I have attempted to echo the splits that were commonplace in the massive branches as they hung from Sevenoaks' ravaged trees and also, with ironwork, a reference to man's attempts to 'fix' nature, as well as a nod to the lost crafts of the Weald of Kent, once famous for iron.

The heavy cast-iron base section was cast in one of the last great foundries in the city of Birmingham and the lines cut into it are an exact replica of the pattern of the isobars that appeared on the weather chart of Sevenoaks on the night of the storm.

Since 1987, and the onset of what is now called 'Climate Breakdown', extreme weather events are becoming more commonplace so, perhaps, the sculpture might also serve to remind us of our frailty and vulnerability as a species in the face of nature.

The Harry Garrett Hall

Harry Garrett was a Dunkirk veteran and long standing resident of Sevenoaks. He was made a Freeman of Sevenoaks in 2018 for his commitment to the local community.

He was a kind man who raised considerable funds for the Royal British Legion through the local poppy appeal and in 2004 was awarded a Certificate of Appreciation for his services.

Locally he was informally known as 'the Sheriff of Pontoise' always keeping a watchful eye on the park.

On his 100th birthday the Town Council arranged for a tree to be planted in Pontoise Close play area, which he could see from his house. At the planting ceremony former Mayor of Sevenoaks, Councillor Parry, referred to him as "a hero – he was in every theatre of the war you can think of."

He died in 2019 aged 101.

The John London Hall

John Frederick London was a former Mayor and Freeman of Sevenoaks and dedicated over 50 years of service to the town of Sevenoaks as a Councillor.

He first became a Councillor in 1959 when he was elected to the Sevenoaks Urban District Council and went on to become Chairman of the District Council in 1970-1971. This later became Sevenoaks Town Council in the Government reorganisation in 1972 and he held the office of Mayor of Sevenoaks in 1974-1975 and on two subsequent occasions in 1988-1989 and 2000-2001.

He was made a Freeman of the Town of Sevenoaks in 2011 when he stepped down as a Town Councillor.

He died in 2018 aged 83.
